

Dear friends and patients,

I'm sure you're all painfully aware of the ongoing pandemic we have found ourselves in. Due to the increasing number of infections, complications of the virus, and risk of further spread, we here at Crellin Chiropractic have opted to remain closed as we continue to evaluate the and monitor the situation. We are trying to remain optimistic but also realistic at the same time. We are hoping to reopen our office in early May. While it pains us to not be there when needed, we have determined closing our office is the proper action to take at this time. Due to the nature of our work remaining open would create a very risky and potential dangerous environment to the health of our staff and patients.

We do want to note an exception, if you feel you have a "chiropractic emergency" we can make arrangements to see you at the office. Email us at atcrellin@yahoo.com.

While we may not be seeing patients at this time we are still hard at work. We are refining our systems and preparing additional resources to improve your experience in our office and better impact our community. Additionally we are aggressively keeping up to date on all current information regarding the COVID-19 pandemic so that we can reopen as soon as it is safe for everyone. It is critical that you all stay informed with relevant and accurate information in order to best protect yourselves at this time. Below are two appropriate sources of information to do so.

In closing we'd like to assure each and everyone of you that we will be returning to practice as soon as it is deemed safe. This is a matter of all of our healths, and in some extreme situations, lives. It is important to us that we do our part in helping to control and reduce the spread of this pandemic for the safety of our community. Upon reopening we welcome all of our patients to return to the office for further treatment and management of all your chiropractic needs.

We wish you all the best,

Drs. Andrew and Alex Crellin.
